No one intends an accident to happen! However the recent months has been witness to multiple chemical industry accidents occurring at too close interludes for comfort. Responses of businesses that were victims of these incidents often reiterates the story of normalization of deviation or a mindset that “we have been operating these plants for many years and nothing had happened so far”.

The other possible reason could be that the COVID-19 pandemic has prompted most, if not all, companies to refocus their priorities that have resulted in neglect and acceleration of other risks, particularly safety risks. These risk have had serious consequences to the companies' bottom line, and the safety of employees and surrounding communities.

Indian Chemical Council (ICC) is organizing a half day workshop on “Keeping your biggest hazards and risks from turning into a nightmare” in collaboration with DuPont Sustainable Solutions (DSS), worlds No.1 EHS consulting brand. The workshop will help the participants focus on:

1. Defining the top risks the company or site faces and its potential impact
2. Identifying the gaps in key risk controls meant to keep an accident from happening
3. Delving into the underlying gaps in the management system
4. Ensuring appropriate risk mitigation measures are in place and working

Who should attend

This workshop will help Operations leaders, plant heads and EHS and safety heads further their learning around Safety, Operations Risk Management and Leadership.
